

TO ACT ON PETITION
FOR A LIQUOR VOTE

City Council in Session Tonight to Consider Request of Columbia Voters.

COUNTY ELECTION MAY 4

Court Has Appointed Judges in Each Township for Next Saturday.

With the wet-dry election in Boone County Saturday and both sides confident, a special meeting of the City Council has been called for tonight to consider petitions for a local option election in Columbia next month.

Only 200 names are required on the petition which will go to the council tonight and it is said a much larger number of signers has been obtained. Should the council decide tonight to grant the request in the petition, the date of election and judges will be named at the next regular meeting, May 7.

Enthusiastic claims are made by the leaders of the local option forces as to the probable outcome of Saturday's election in Boone County outside Columbia.

Dry Leader Confident.

"If the voters get to the polls, as we think they will, Boone County will go dry Saturday by at least 1,200 majority," said the Rev. E. F. Jones, district superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Missouri, who is in charge of the dry forces here. "Of the thirty precincts in the county, we are doubtful only as to five. We consider that we have a good fighting chance in these precincts, but at least twenty-five precincts are dry without question."

Dry headquarters for the Boone County fight are in rooms 305-06, Exchange National Bank building, the offices of W. H. Goldsberry.

No outward manifestations of activity have been shown by the wets. No headquarters have been established and no leaders are in evidence. That the election will not be allowed to go by default on the part of the wets is regarded as axiomatic by the dry leaders and they expect a hard fight election day.

"The wets are on a still hunt," said Mr. Jones. "The dries need not think their opponents are not working or that they are not organized. They will show up election day with a perfect organization."

Mr. Jones spoke in Centralia last night and will talk at Sturgeon tonight. Tomorrow he will work at Harrisburg and talk at Woodlandville tomorrow night. Thursday he will go to Rocheport and that night will speak at Wilton. There will be public speaking every night this week and the dries have carried the campaign into every precinct of the county.

HACKNEY IN GAME
AFTER SEVEN MONTHS

Back in His Old Place at First Base for the Tigers.

INELIGIBLE FOR FOOTBALL

His First Intercollegiate Contest Since He Was Hurt Last Fall.

T. D. Hackney re-entered the Tiger line-up this afternoon after an absence of about seven months. The Kansas "Aggies" game is the first intercollegiate competition for Hackney since the dislocation of his shoulder in the Rolla football game season.

Hackney was out with the baseball nine early in the season, but quit on the advice of his physician. However, he has been playing fraternity baseball and thought he might as well play with the Varsity team, too. He is back in his old position at first base.

Hackney has been declared ineligible by the conference for football because he played in the opening games last fall.

Captain Hall, who has been playing first, returned to his old place in center field. The rest of the Tiger line-up was: T. Hall, catcher; Huston, second base; Carter, third base; Brainard, shortstop; Helmreich, right field; Helm, pitcher.

ADVERTISING DAY TO BE A FEATURE

Collection of Ads Will Be Shown By Students Journalism Week.

FORTY ON THE PROGRAM

Country and City Newspaper Work to Be Covered in Five Days' Speeches.

An advertising exhibit is to be one of the features of Journalism Week, May 6 to 10. A collection of advertisement that appeal to the reader and gain favorable attention to the advertising proposition will be on display in Switzer Hall. Current advertising collected by students will be classified as to the relative attention they attract, with a short explanation of the points that make them effective.

Forty newspaper men and women are on the list of speakers for Journalism week. They come from all parts of Missouri and from cities out of the state. Every branch of journalism is represented.

The week is divided so that some special subject in journalism will be taken up each day. The meetings Monday will be informal. Tuesday is the metropolitan editorial and news day. Special features and news in metropolitan and country papers will be discussed Wednesday. Thursday is advertising day and Friday is country newspaper day.

Where the Meetings Will Be.

The day session will be held in Switzer Hall and the night meetings in the University Auditorium, after Monday night. Conferences and discussions will be held after the meetings, so that the visitors may profit by the ideas and opinions of others.

About two hundred persons are expected to come to Columbia next week to hear these journalists. The largest attendance will be at the last of the week when the country editors will have had time to get their papers off the press. Members of the Kansas City Ad Club have written that they will be here Thursday.

Thomas H. Rogers, a special writer on the St. Louis Times, who is a former student at the University of Missouri, will speak on "The Work of a Political Reporter." Another new subject for this year is "Country Journalism as a Career for Women," which will be handled by Mrs. S. E. Lee, editor of the Reporter at Savannah, Mo.

Three Band Concerts.

Band concerts will be given for the editors three nights next week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. The one Friday night will be an open-air concert.

Some of the speakers are: W. M. Ledbetter, city editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat; George S. Johns, editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch; Harold Hall, editor of the St. Joseph Gazette; Louis T. Golding, publisher of the St. Joseph News Press; M. J. Lowenstein, manager of the St. Louis Star; DeWitt C. Wing, editorial writer on the Breckers' Gazette; B. B. Herbert, editor of the National Printer-Journalist; A. B. Chapin, artist on the Kansas City Star; George W. Coleman, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America; H. J. Haskell, editorial writer on the Kansas City Star; Dr. Talcott Williams, director of the Pulitzer School of Journalism, and R. T. Deacon, treasurer of the Ben Franklin Club of America.

Some of the subjects are: "The Cost System," "News as the City Editor Sees It," "Journalism—East and West," "Agricultural Journalism as a Field of Opportunity," "Newspaper Illustration," "The Uses of Advertising," "Special Features of a County Newspaper" and "Humor in the Newspaper."

HELD MEETING IN THE JAIL

"NICK" HERE, TELLS OF MEET

His Lane in Hurdle Race Under Water—But He Won.

John P. Nicholson, who won the high hurdle race at the Pennsylvania relay meet last Saturday, returned this morning. "Nick" was asked to tell about his victory over Case, of Illinois.

"After the first hurdle my lane was in water," he said. "Case had the next lane and it was all above water. I hit the second hurdle and knocked it down. I touched the third and think I hit it, consequently I took all the others high because if I had hit another I would have been disqualified."

"We took the tenth hurdle about even and then came the race for the tape. I won by about a foot. From a coach's standpoint, Case ran the better race. I took the hurdles too high."

Nicholson was fifth in the running broad jump. He couldn't hit the take off and jumped only 21 feet and 2 1-2 inches. This event was won by Gutterton of Vermont University at 24 feet and 5-8 inches. Every jump he made was over 23 feet, although the runway was in bad condition. Nicholson didn't compete in the high jump because of the slick field.

In spite of the rain 15,000 persons saw the meet. It rained from 11 o'clock till 4:30. The meet began at 1 o'clock. It was a drizzling, moderately hard rain. One world's record was broken, that of the mile interscholastic relay by Mercersburg Academy. The last man ran the quarter in 50:11.5.

Illinois University won second in the hurdles, the two-mile relay and the pole vault. Murphy, who went 12 feet in the Missouri-Illinois meet, won second in the pole vault, going 12 feet 2 inches.

"DER BIBLIOTHEKAR" TONIGHT

German Comedy Will Be Given by Students.

A conspiracy against a private secretary of a wealthy Englishman; a young spendthrift disguised as the secretary in order to marry the rich man's daughter; and a spiritualistic medium, who breaks up the conspiracy by revealing the plan in a séance at which the girl is present—these are some of the complications of the German comedy, "Der Bibliothekar," which is to be given by the German Club in the University Auditorium tonight.

Two young men, Lothair and Harry, leave London to escape the payment of their debts, and go to the country estate of Harry's uncle Marsland, to a hunting party. They persuade the secretary to an exchange of identities, and proceed to enjoy themselves without being known to outsiders. There are two girls with whom they fall in love, a governess who is also a spiritualist, and a bill collector who tries to break into society by his power over them. The uncle discovers the plot, pays all their debts, they marry the girls, and the private secretary gets his old position back again.

The play is a farce, founded on a German idea of English manners, and is full of laughable incidents. It will begin at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

WANTED THE "BUMPS" TO STAY

Girls Disappointed When Wreckers Tore Down Slippery Slide.

The Farmers' County Fair has disappeared almost as suddenly as it appeared. Within twelve hours after the work of erecting the booths along the pike began the shows were ready to open. Twelve hours after the shadows closed all of the structures had been torn down and most of the material stored away for use next year.

Some opposition was met when the wrecking crew began tearing down the bump-the-bumps. A crowd of small children pleaded with the wreckers to allow the bumps to remain up a day or two longer. But in accordance with the requests of the faculty, that the fair be cleared away as soon as possible, the managers decreed that the bumps must only ones disappointed. Sometime ago the children were not the only ones disappointed. Some sorority girls who had organized "bumping parties" found only a pile of lumber when they arrived in the evening.

The junior class has in charge the storing of material, most of which can be used in the fair next year. Proper handling of this material will mean a saving of several hundred dollars to the students of the college.

MORE SCHOOLS FOR THE MEET

Independence, Joplin and Chillicothe Expect to Enter.

Independence, Joplin and Chillicothe high schools declared their intention of entering the High School Day meet next Saturday, but their entry lists have not been received by C. L. Brewer. Mr. Brewer said that Joplin and Independence said over long-distance telephone that they had mailed their entries, but they have failed to arrive here. Mr. Brewer says he expects to get them tonight, and that the delay will not prevent their competing.
